RUSSIA AND CHINA.

Fifteen Russian Warships Now En Route to Fusan.

A GRAVE SITUATION OF AFFAIRS.

The Representatives of the Czar, It is Reported, Will Permanently Occupy Fusan. The Situation Watched with Keen Interest by Eastern Diplomats at Washington.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—A special dispatch from Shanghai says that a Russian squadron of 15 warships has left Vladivostok for Fusan and Fusan. The Japanese fleet in Fusan waters, it is also stated, has been recalled, and it is announced on excellent authority that several British warships have been ordered to sail for Korea.

It is stated in Shanghai that Japan's reply to the demand of Russia that the former evacuate Korea is couched in pacific but firm language, and protests again against detention by Russia in Korean affairs.

It is reported in Shanghai as certain that Russia will permanently occupy Fusan.

The Shanghai dispatch also says that the situation of affairs is most grave, and that preparations for the expected struggle are visible on all sides; but it is hoped that a solution of the difficulty will be found in Russia and Japan agreeing to divide Korea.

The correspondent of The Times at Hong Kong learns from a reliable source that by the recently concluded Russo-China treaty, Russia obtains rights to anchor her fleet at Port Arthur, and to construct and work under Russian administration railways from Norkhinsk and Tishler to Vladivostok, and from Tishler to Port Arthur, together with other commercial advantages, to which the most favored nation clause is not applicable.

But the Chinese reserve the option to purchase the railways twenty years hence at a price to be arranged hereafter.

In an editorial, commenting upon this dispatch from Hong Kong, The Times says this morning: "Our correspondent has close relations with men who are able to penetrate beneath the surface of things. His startling news, therefore, cannot be disregarded, even as it is probable, though it is followed by an official denial, that Russia cannot possibly imagine that the great powers will view with indifference such a destruction of the balance of power which is almost unparalleled in its audacity. China's option to purchase the railways is a just almost too critical to find a place in any serious diplomatic transaction under the indicated conditions. Manchuria would practically become a Russian province, while Peking would be within Russia's grip."

Russian statesmen are so well aware of the magnitude of the changes involved that it is impossible that they should execute them unless they have definitely resolved to abandon the cautious and pacific policy of the last reign and plunge into vast and dangerous activities, to say nothing of Japan, England and Germany, and even France, in spite of her complaisance, could scarcely fail to perceive that her friendship had been exploited with unexpected thoroughness."

WATCHED WITH KEEN INTEREST.

Eastern Diplomats Greatly Concerned Over the Encroachments of Russia.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The cable reports that a Russian fleet of fifteen vessels was on its way to Korea attracted much attention among the diplomatic representatives of the far east to whom it was shown. It is regarded as presenting grave conditions. If the facts are as reported, The fact that

GUERRILLA WARFARE IN CUBA

Arson and Dynamite Being Used as an Aid to Independence.

HAVANA, Oct. 25.—The band of insurgents commanded by Clotilde Garcia, who recently attacked Hato Nuevo, have killed a peaceable citizen, wounded a young lady and a policeman and burned a church and twenty-seven houses of that place, the buildings being the property of the mayor of the town. The insurgents were pursued and the troops captured one of them, a man who was severely wounded.

The insurgents have also attacked the village of Luperon, in the province of Santa Clara, seriously wounding a Spanish sentinel who fired upon their advance guard at the plantation of Labrador. After exchanging shots for an hour the insurgents retired with a loss of two killed.

A band of 300 insurgents under the insurgent leaders, Fraga, El Inglesito, La Muerte and Rogina Alfonso, which had concentrated at Matanzas, marched last night to the San Miguel hills of Matanzas.

Five members of a Havana company of volunteers deserted, and started for the insurgents' line, but were captured in Cardenas.

The insurgents have attempted to dynamite a train in the province of Puerto Principe. A soldier at the fort saw a bomb on the track and attempted to remove it, when it exploded, wounding and blinding him.

Fatal Train Collision.

HOTEL PARK, Miss., Oct. 25.—A rear-end collision occurred here on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad last evening in which Benjamin G. M. Austin was killed, one woman fatally injured and twelve other passengers were more or less seriously hurt. Mrs. William Ross, of Cambridge, was fatally injured internally. Congressman Elijah J. Morse, of Canton, had both hands and arms cut, and the others received injuries more or less serious. The engine of the Providence express train plowed into the end car of an accommodation train for a distance of five or six feet, and it is miraculous that no more were killed. Engineer Burnham, of the express train, is held responsible for the accident.

Mr. Van Allen Furnishes Bail.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 25.—James M. Ripley, Rathbun Gardner and Richard Comstock, counsel for Mrs. Samuel P. Colt, held a conference with their client at Mr. Comstock's office yesterday. The entire party then started for New York. Colonel Colt, accompanied by friends, went to that city on Wednesday, but no one here seems to know what this exodus means. The writ for Mr. J. J. Van Allen's arrest was served today by High Sheriff DeBlois, of Newport county. Mr. Van Allen furnished the required bond immediately.

Greenwich Naval School Closed to Us.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Apparently the British authorities feel that they have gone as far as prudence and courtesy permits in assisting in the education of our naval constructors, for the navy department has been notified that hereafter no American naval officers will be permitted to take the course at the Greenwich naval school of naval architecture, a privilege which has been enjoyed by them for many years with such signal benefit that they usually have graduated at or near the head of their classes.

The Executions at Kueheng.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 25.—A correspondent at Port Chow sends the following account of the executions at Kueheng on the morning of the 17th ult.: Seven of the murderers were executed at the south gate of the city. All the members of the commission were present with the exception of Captain Nowell and the Rev. W. Bannister. The scene was a gruesome one, only one head being severed at the first blow, the others being chopped and the unfortunate wretches left to die. Since then the names of sixteen more criminals have been communicated to the viceroy for execution.

Charged with Criminal Malpractice.

BUFFALO, Oct. 25.—Miss Annie Cavanaugh, a handsome young woman of evident wealth and refinement, died yesterday at the boarding house of Mrs. Blanchette, at No. 175 West Huron street, as the result of a criminal operation performed upon her by Dr. G. H. Harper, a practicing physician of this city. Dr. Harper has been placed under arrest on the charge of murder, and has confessed to committing an operation, but claims that such a step was necessary as an attempt to save the girl's life. The district attorney says he has the name of the young woman's seducer.

The St. Augustine's Crew Rescued.

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—The crew of the steamer City of St. Augustine, which vessel was abandoned at sea abaze from stem to stern, is safe, having been picked up by the steamer City of Mason, Captain Lewis, from Savannah, Ga., which arrived here yesterday. The fire started in the fire room, and spread so rapidly that all efforts to fight it were futile. The St. Augustine carried a crew of seventeen men, all told. Save for a cold contracted by the chief officer and some of the crew at the time of the disaster, the shipwrecked seamen are in good health.

A Lively Color Line Fight.

PERRY, O., Oct. 25.—The members of the local school board will probably be put in jail for refusing to admit negro children to white schools. The colored people obtained a writ of mandamus ten days ago, compelling the board to readmit all children to the city schools; but under the authority of the board, Superintendent Augustine ordered the colored children from the white schools to their own buildings.

Kansas City's Election Frauds.

LEXINGTON, Mo., Oct. 25.—In the Kansas City election fraud case I. H. Bradburg, formerly foreman of a street gang in Kansas City, said that at the instance of Alderman John Moran he had taken his men to several different polling places previous to last fall's election and registered them each time.

AN ENGLISH SCHEME.

Wants to Form an Alliance with Our Government

TO CONTROL SPANISH AMERICA.

Willing to Assist in the Enforcement of the Monroe Doctrine if British Rights Are Recognized.—The Proposition Will Undoubtedly be Rejected.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Great Britain has made a suggestion to this country to form an alliance for the enforcement of the Monroe doctrine jointly as against other nations, the preservation of peace and stability of government in South and Central America, and to compel a proper respect of international law and equity by those smaller republics.

In other words, Great Britain is willing that the Monroe doctrine should be enforced, and that the United States should exercise a protective influence over the minor republics of this continent if the English right, interest and power is recognized as equal to that of the United States.

In pursuance with this idea Great Britain suggests that the two countries join in the construction of the Nicaraguan canal. This is said to come in the form of a suggestion, not as a formal proposition. The character of the reply, if one has been sent yet, is not known outside the state department and the cabinet circle, but the belief is that the suggestion has not been entertained at all.

While there is no doubt that the Monroe doctrine would be enforced against other nations through such an alliance, it is held that the greatest power would be exempted, and would become the partner of the United States to share and share alike in the direction of the affairs of this continent. England would have nothing to lose by such an arrangement, and this country would have nothing to gain, and under the present state of our diplomacy, our interests would probably soon become subordinate to that of the English foreign office.

In the early part of the century Great Britain, then not entirely satisfied with the plans of the "Holy Alliance" of European powers, made a similar proposition to the United States, to the one now suggested. The proposition was then rejected, not on account of any unfriendliness towards Great Britain, but in deference to the policy urged at Washington of avoiding all entangling alliances.

THE PRESIDENT'S RETURN.

Popular Oration on the Trip from Atlanta to Washington.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The special train over the Southern railway which conveyed the president and a number of the members of his cabinet from the Atlanta exposition reached the city shortly after 8 o'clock last night. The members of the party, with President Cleveland and Private Secretary Thurston in the lead, walked along the platform through the public passageway waiting room and out the front door to the waiting room at the time, and but a very small proportion of them knew the personnel of the distinguished party. There was no public demonstration, only the occasional lifting of a hat by those who recognized the president and the members of his cabinet.

The president's party on the return trip was unchanged except that Secretary Hoke Smith remained in Atlanta to make arrangements to bring his family to this city for the winter. The returning travelers are delighted with what they saw and heard, and no untoward incidents or sickness marred the pleasures of the visit. The president and those accompanying him were particularly pleased with the ovation tendered by the people at various points along the line of the railroad, the largest crowds of which appeared at Charlotte, Salisbury, Greensboro, Danville and Lynchburg.

Honolulu's Quarantine Lifted.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—The steamer Mariposa brings word from Honolulu that the board of health has lifted the quarantine, and Honolulu is once more a clean port. No cases of cholera have been reported for over two weeks, and there is reason to believe that the trouble has been eradicated. The Mariposa went inside of the harbor and allowed her passengers to go ashore. The vessel brought mail and passengers from Honolulu, and was furnished a clean bill of health by both United States Consul Mills and the local board of health.

Found Murdered on the Track.

SOUTH GREENFIELD, Mo., Oct. 25.—The body of W. F. Perrell, druggist and liveyman of this place, was found lying on the railroad track near town yesterday. Perrell's skull was crushed in, evidently by a blow from behind. It is evident that he was murdered and then placed on the track. Whoever committed the deed failed in his purpose, if robbery was intended. Perrell's watch only was missing, while $25 was found on the body, the murderer, evidently being frightened away before finishing his search.

A Halt in the Mine Strike.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 25.—The action of the miners of the Clearfield region, assembled in mass meeting at Ramey yesterday, has caused a halt to be ordered in the strike, and at least a temporary resumption of work in many parts of the districts affected. The mass meeting declared against suspending work at this time, and voted to send a committee of the Berwind-White Coal Mining company's employees to Philadelphia to present the demand for an increase of wages, and, should the request be refused, to insist on a joint conference of operators and miners along the Pennsylvania and Beech Creek railways being held before Nov. 10. The committee left for Philadelphia last evening. W. B. Wilson has telegraphed advice to the miners to resume work pending the result of the conference.

CHAMPION CORBETT'S CLAIM.

He Will Offer the Belt to be Fought for by Maher and O'Donnell.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The following telegram was received by the editor of a sporting paper here today from James J. Corbett, at Hot Springs, Ark.: "I claim the championship belt by forfeit. Fitzsimmons has failed to live up to a single agreement, and the club has declared the match off. For that reason the stakeholder also declared him forfeit. I want you to acknowledge this claim, and announce it publicly. I will offer the belt to be fought for by Maher and O'Donnell."

To this dispatch the following reply was made: "According to the conditions governing the belt its disposition goes with the decision of referee. In the absence of a referee it depends upon the final disposition of the stakeholder. It after Oct. 31, Stakeholder Dwyer acknowledges your claim to Fitzsimmons' stake money, the belt will be awarded to you. The declaration by the club that the match is off is not a factor to the agreement between you and Fitzsimmons. If there is no fight Oct. 31, the articles of agreement are nullified. If you announce your retirement as champion we will offer the belt for competition by Maher and O'Donnell, or any other challengers."

The Other Windy "Fighter."

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Oct. 25.—Said Fitzsimmons today: "Corbett has acted a coward and a snail in the whole business, and if I ever meet him I'll tell him so to his face. I intend to complete my four weeks' training at this place, fight or no fight."

A Fire Chief's Fatal Fall.

ALBANY, Oct. 25.—The probable death of J. C. Griffin, assistant chief of the fire department, and a loss of $200,000 are the results of a fire which totally destroyed the immense store and stock of B. Stark & Co., fancy goods and military establishment, last night, and which gutted three other business houses. Griffin was working on the roof, and fell a distance of twenty feet, sustaining internal injuries. He is 60 years old.

Murdered by His Rival in Love.

DANVILLE, Ill., Oct. 25.—Two young men named William Coates and John W. Kitchen have been rivals for some time for the hand of a young lady named Ella Spangler. Wednesday night Kitchen escorted the young lady home. After leaving her he met Coates and they became involved in an altercation, when Kitchen drew his revolver and shot Coates through the heart.

Race Track Gamblers Arrested.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Although it was expected that a good day's sport would be had at Morris Park, with seven well filled races on the card, and a few surprises due to change of form, it was not thought that a lot of Central office detectives would cause consternation among the betting men and in the office of the association, but this was the case, and a fine day's sport was marred by the action of the police. Soon after the fourth race, had been run eight bookmakers, with five assistants, were arrested on charges of book-making and taken to Essex Market police court, where they were held. After the sixth race the judges, Colonel Simmons and Clarence McDowell, and C. G. Fitzgerald, clerk of the scales, were taken into custody on a charge of maintaining a lottery. They were released on bail.

Deadly Duel in Texas.

HORSTON, Tex., Oct. 25.—Sidney Lane, a Southern Pacific brakeman, started out yesterday with blood in his eye and pistol in hand to hunt Conductor C. H. Neville. The latter had been warned, and when he saw Lane opened fire on him. Lane returned the fire, and a desperate duel ensued. Neville was struck three times and died in an hour. Lane was hit twice, and will die. After firing five shots each of the men clinched and beat each other over the head and face with their pistols in a horrible manner. Neville refused to let Lane run on his train because he disobeyed orders.

Steamer St. Louis Disabled.

SOUTHAMPTON, Oct. 25.—The American line steamer City of St. Louis arrived here late yesterday afternoon in tow of two tugs. The rudder frame of the steamship broke on Oct. 22, when the St. Louis was about 750 miles west of the Scilly Islands, and from the time the accident occurred she was steered by her engines and twin screws. The American line announced that the steamship will be unable to sail on Oct. 26 for her return passage to New York, as scheduled, and she will be replaced on that date by the Berlin.

A Fight in Midair.

BUFFALO, Oct. 25.—Edward Jacobs and E. J. Connors, ironworkers on the new Elliott Square building, fought while standing on a small beam in the open room of the unfinished tenth floor. Jacobs lost his balance and fell through the ninth and eighth floors, striking the beams as he fell. Between the seventh and eighth floors, by a fortunate circumstance, he caught the elevator rope, and there hung until rescued. Beyond the shock his injuries are slight, and he will be at work again in a few days.

Mrs. Yznaga Gets Her Divorce.

YANKEE, S. D., Oct. 25.—The decree of divorce has been granted in the case of Mrs. Mabel W. Yznaga, the famous New York beauty, against Fernando A. Yznaga, of New York. The complaint alleges desertion of plaintiff by the defendant on Feb. 5, 1891, and asks for a reasonable alimony and the expenses of the suit. The defendant made no contest, but appeared by attorney, so as to render the decree as valid to him as to her.

Wisconsin's Forest Fires.

GREEN BAY, Wis., Oct. 25.—The pall of smoke that has enveloped this city for weeks past was never more disagreeable than last night. It came from the west, where continuous fires are burning between here and Seymour. Large fires are raging immediately east and west of that place, the one on the west having approached within a mile of the city. An immense amount of timber is being destroyed.

PROTECT THE MINERS.

Governor Altgeld's Plain Talk to the Mine Inspectors.

THEIR DUTY TO PROTECT THE POOR.

The Operators Are Strong Enough to Protect Themselves.—The Officials Instructed to Permit No Operators to Accompany Them on Their Tours of Inspection.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Governor Altgeld recently appointed seven state mine inspectors, and yesterday he summoned them before him, gave them their commissions and then made the following talk to them regarding their duties. The governor said: "The mining laws of this state were enacted for the protection of the weak and the poor. The operator, who is strong, can take care of himself. These coal miners are sometimes ignorant of their rights, always poor and dependent, and cannot manifest their dissatisfaction with objectionable conditions prevailing around the mines without risking their jobs. You are, therefore, appointed by the state to do for them what they cannot do for themselves. I therefore insist that in inspecting mines you do so without permitting the operators or their representatives to accompany you.

"Make your inspection thorough and independent, without their aid. After you have done so find out from the men if there is any ground for complaint among them."

"I further wish to say that there has been entirely too many accidents; not that there has been more within the past few years than formerly, but I mean to say there were some accidents that should have been avoided."

Worshippers Crushed to Death.

WARSZAWA, Oct. 25.—The city of Lublin, capital of the government of that name in Russian Poland, was visited by a hurricane yesterday which resulted in loss of life and great damage to property. Religious services were being held in the cathedral. The iron covered roof of the edifice, which was filled with worshippers, was torn away and fell into the interior of the church, killing several persons outright and injuring a large number. The panic stricken congregation, shrieking with terror, made a rush for the doors, and many men, women and children were thrown down and trampled upon or crushed to death or insensibility in the struggling mass of humanity.

Peralta Claim Finally Rejected.

SANTA FE, N. M., Oct. 25.—In the court of private land claims a formal decision finally rejected the Peralta land grant in southern New Mexico and Arizona, claiming 12,300,000 acres, worth at least $25,000,000, was handed down by Chief Justice Reed. The court holds that no alleged claimant, Miguel de Peralta, baron of the Colorado, existed, and that the grant papers are forgeries. Reveals who is now in jail here on a charge of presenting a fraudulent claim against the government, says he will appeal the case to the United States supreme court.

Turkish Mode of Execution.

LOVNOV, Oct. 25.—The standard this morning has further details from its correspondent at Constantinople regarding the execution of the fifty young Turks who were arrested on Saturday on a charge of excesses during the recent Armenian riots. The fifty culprits were conveyed by night aboard a Turkish man-of-war whose boats took them into the swift current and dropped them overboard. These measures have entirely broken the spirit of the Turkish revolutionaries.

A Hunter Shot by His Dog.

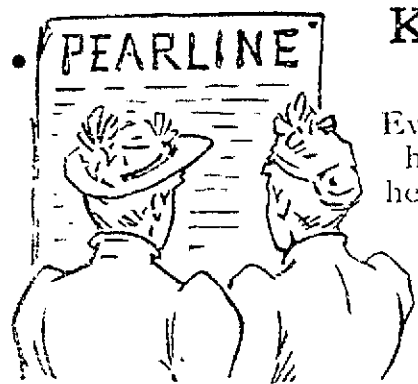

LAUREL, Del., Oct. 25.—Orlando English, a prominent young farmer residing near the Delaware line, met a friend while out rabbit hunting, and sat down to rest, leaving his gun, a double barreled breech loader, against a stump. His dog brushed against the weapon, knocking it over. As the gun fell both barrels were discharged, and the charges entered English's abdomen, literally tearing it to pieces and killing him instantly.

Violent Epidemic of Diphtheria.

ROCKLAND, Me., Oct. 25.—A violent epidemic of diphtheria is raging here. All the public schools and places of amusement have been closed by the local board of health, and the infected district has been quarantined. Secretary Young, of the state board of health, arrived yesterday and ordered the Episcopal church to be closed and disinfected. The closing of the other churches was also recommended.

Fastest Train in the World.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—The fastest regular train ever run in the world, taking distance into consideration, will be making its daily trip over the Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad on Tuesday evening next. It will leave Chicago at 6 a. m. and will reach Los Angeles, Cal., on Friday at 4 p. m., making the run of 2,350 miles in seventy-four hours, allowing for the stop en route.

Keep your eye on Pearlline "ads."

Even if you use it already, you'll find hints here and there that will greatly help you. And there isn't a man, woman, or child but can be helped by Pearlline.

All these advertisements are meant for the good of Pearlline, of course—to show you the best and easiest and cheapest way of washing and cleaning, and to lead you to use it. But if they do, they will have helped you far more than they will have helped Pearlline. You have more at stake. All the money you could bring to Pearlline, by using it, wouldn't be a drop in the bucket to the money you'd save by it.

Send Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearlline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearlline, be honest—send it back.

GEN. HORATIO C. KING.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR THE OFFICE OF SECRETARY OF STATE.

CIVIL AND MILITARY CAREER

He Has Distinguished Himself Both as a Lawyer and a Soldier—His Early Life Passed in Washington.

The present year is what is popularly called an "off year" in politics, and the fact that a Governor is not to be balloted for next month gives to Gen. Horatio C. King, the nominee for Secretary of State, the honor of heading the Democratic ticket. This office is of no small importance, for under recent changes in legislation, especially as affecting corporations, many new duties have been added to it.

Among the predecessors of Mr. Palmer, the present incumbent of the office, have been Frederick Cook, Allen C. Beach, John Bigelow, Homer A. Nelson, Gen. T. A. Barlow, Chauncey M. Depew, Samuel Young, and Gen. John A. Dix.

Gen. Horatio Collins King was born in Portland in December, 1837. At that time his father, Horatio King, afterward Postmaster General under Buchanan, was editing The Jeffersonian, a strong Jacksonian Democratic paper. On the election of Jackson Mr. King was offered a position in the Post Office Department at Washington by Amos Kendall, then Postmaster General, in recognition of his services. He determined to accept, and in 1839, when young Horatio was only 18 months old, he moved with his family to Washington. As a result of this change of residence Gen. King's earliest recollections are of the busy military and political life of the National Capital. Among the first events which he recalls, and which may have tended to shape his natural desire for a military life, was the recruiting and departure of the soldiers from Washington to the Mexican war. Another event which still remains firmly fixed in his memory is the burning of the National Theatre and its subsequent hasty rebuilding for the performance of Jenny Lind in 1849. Always an ardent lover of music, the keen disappointment which he felt when not allowed to attend the concert still lingers in his mind.

His early youth was passed like that of other boys, except that his father's official position gave him the opportunity of meeting many distinguished men. Among them were the members of the famous Senate of 1850-54, which included Webster, Clay, Calhoun, Benton, and Douglass. Of his meeting with Zachary Taylor, Gen. King says: "As was the custom then, after the inauguration, the President held a levee at the White House, the crowd passing simply through the main entrance to the grounds in the rear. A change in the political complexion of the administration had brought an immense crowd to Washington. The crowd at the reception was so great that women and even men fainted. I was a little shaver, but lithe and active, and wormed myself through the forest of legs until I stood in front of the veteran President and hero of the Mexican war, who placed his hand on my head and said, 'Well done, my brave boy, always push on in the world.'"

In 1851 young King was sent to Emory and Henry College in southwestern Virginia, of which his uncle, the Rev. Dr. Collins, was President. The journey, which can now be made in a day from Washington, then took five, and boats, railroads, and stages had to be used. Gen. King describes his life there as being "turned out to grass." The Virginia and Tennessee Railroad, now known as the Norfolk and Western, had just been projected, and as the line ran through his uncle's farm, he spent much of his time guiding a mud dump cart. Here, he says, he learned the accomplishment of riding a mule bareback. "The average reader may not look on this as an accomplishment, but when one learns that as the mule has no shoulders to speak of, it is necessary to lock the feet around the mule's neck and hold on to his ears if there is any tendency to elevation from the rear it may be considered as an art."

About eight years ago Gen. King was invited to visit Emory and Henry College and deliver the address to the graduating class. In 1854 he followed his uncle, who had been appointed President of Dickinson College, to that institution, and there matriculated. Here his real work for an education began, and in 1858 Gen. King was graduated with the degree of A. B., well up in the first half of one of the largest classes that ever left Dickinson. His tastes led him to study law, and on his return to Washington he entered the office of Edwin M. Stanton, where as a student he was associated with Chauncey F. Black, the son of President Buchanan's Attorney General. At this time he joined the National Rifles, then the crack company of Washington, and with them performed his first military service as a sharpshooter, stationed on the house-tops along Pennsylvania Avenue, the line of march of the inaugural procession of President Lincoln.

In 1861 the young law student fell in love and became engaged to the daughter of Mr. Russell Stebbins, a prominent New York merchant. This attachment led him to New York, where he entered the office of Van Winkle, Candler & Jay, now Candler & Jay, on Wall street. When Sumter was fired on the dormant longing for military life awoke and Mr. King was anxious to enter the Seventh Regiment. His father, trusting him that the war would be over in sixty days, dissuaded him.

But the sixty days passed, and the war showing no signs of ending, the young aspirant for military honors sought an appointment as Adjutant in a battalion of light infantry which Col. Polson, an ex-officer of the Prussian army who had risen up his position as professor at Union College, was organizing. An application to the Governor of the State was referred to the War Department at Washington. There it was found that an Adjutant could not be attached to any organization less than a regiment.

As this position was the only one possible in the battalion, the future General applied to headquarters for anything to do. There he was introduced to Major Gen. Silas Casey, a veteran of the Mexican war, who was in want of a Staff Quartermaster. A letter from Casey with the endorsement of Secretary Stanton procured the appointment, and in less than an hour he was sworn in. Receiving a leave of absence, the Quartermaster returned to New York newly appointed Captain and Assistant and purchased his horse and uniform.

At this time troops were pouring into Washington in response to the call of President Lincoln for 175,000 men. The twenty-five-year-old Captain was soon busy in helping to equip this vast army of men and in keeping a sort of school of instruction for new and inexperienced Quartermasters. While busy in this work Gen. King first met Benjamin F. Tracy, then a Colonel of volunteers. This was the beginning of a lifelong friendship.

Soon after he was transferred to the staff of Major Gen. Heintzelman, who commanded the Middle Military Department, and remained with his successor, Major Gen. Augur. On the appointment of Gen. De Russy to the command of the defenses south of the Potomac, he was appointed to his staff. These duties, important as they were, involving the handling of millions of dollars, could not satisfy so active a soldier as Gen. King proved himself to be, and he applied in person to Secretary Stanton to be transferred to more active duties.

As a result of this application he was ordered to report to Gen. Sheridan, then commanding the Army of the Shenandoah. Here he was assigned to the staff of Gen. Wesley Merritt, with the rank of Major. In February, 1865, a reorganization made Gen. Merritt corps commander, and Gen. Thomas C. Devin became Major King's superior officer. At this time occurred the celebrated James River raid, in which he took an active part and in the course of which occurred a scene of which Gen. King recently said: "I shall never forget our crossing the pontoon bridge at Deep Bottom, which was opened to permit the passage of the dispatch boat Nelly Martin, at the window of whose pilot house we saw the worn and anxious face of President Lincoln."

At the battle of Five Forks the young Major played an important part in bringing up the reserve brigade in time to repel the fierce charge of the Confederate forces under Pickett and Johnson. For his brave work at this time Gen. Devin recommended him for the brevet of Colonel, said: "During the battles at Five Forks and those subsequent, Major King volunteered his services as my personal aide and rendered gallant and distinguished service." This brevet was afterward granted.

After taking part in the campaign which ended in the surrender of Lee the rejoicing for which was as soon turned to mourning for the death of Lincoln, Major King, after participating in the final review at Washington, handed in his resignation and turned again to private life. In granting this application Gen. Devin took occasion to speak highly of his work as follows:

"In his new career he will carry with him not only the heartiest wishes for his success from all with whom he has been associated, but also the consciousness of having so performed his manly, arduous, and often hazardous duties as never to have given cause for a single complaint during his connection with this division."

A believer in heredity as influencing the choice of occupation could find much to support his theory in the case of Gen. King. He comes of a line of soldiers in the Revolution and the war of 1812, and since his return to New York he has been much engaged in newspaper work, as was his father. In 1869 he became associate editor of The New York Star, which position he filled for two years. Then he became manager of J. B. Ford & Co., who published The Christian Union when Beecher was its editor, and after he was publisher of The Christian at Work under the editorship of the Rev. T. De Witt Talmage. At the personal solicitation of Mr. Beecher, however, he returned to The Christian Union as publisher. Mr. King's chief work, however, has been in the practice of law, first in New York, with Gen. Tracy, and after with Broadhead, King & Voorhees. About five years ago he removed his practice to Brooklyn.

It is hard to conceive how a man with all the various cares and duties of official and business life can find time to do much more than become acquainted with his family, but Gen. King is more a family man than anything, and he takes more pride in his six charming daughters than in the honors which have been showered on him. In 1862 Mr. King was married to Miss Stebbins of New York, who died in Washington in 1864, leaving an infant daughter who survived her but a few months. His second wife was the daughter of John T. Howard of Brooklyn. Of his six daughters, the youngest of whom is fourteen, two have been married some time—Mrs. Percy R. Gray and Mrs. S. S. Norton. Another, Clara, was married Thursday to Mr. Cleveland Litchfield of Brooklyn. Gen. King's home, at 46 Willow street, Brooklyn, where he has lived for eight or nine years, is marked by more of comfort than of pretense. The most characteristic room is the study, where much of his time is spent. It is small and plainly furnished, but the tastes of its owner are shown by the bookcases and pictures which line the walls. If so busy a man can be said to have a hobby, he has two—books and music. A library of 2,000 volumes, especially rich records and history of the war, gives evidence of the former, and the many musical compositions which bear his name give evidence of the latter.

Like Gen. Palmer, the present incumbent of the office of Secretary of State, Gen. King has been very prominent in such organizations as the Grand Army and the Loyal Legion. Of the latter he was a charter member of the New York Commandery. For eighteen years he has been Secretary of the Society of the Army of the Potomac. As an authority upon military law, also, Gen. King stands high. He was appointed by Gov. Cleveland to the position of Judge Advocate General, ranking as Brigadier General, and in this position he was continued by Gov. Hill until the expiration of his term.

Gen. King is indeed a man of varied accomplishments. As a member of the Board of Education, as a lecturer, and as a contributor to magazines, he has been equally successful. In all his public career he has never but once been an unsuccessful applicant for office. Gen. King is a member of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, and is a Scottish Rite thirty-third degree Mason.—New York Times.

As to Spoiled Ballots.

The law allows five minutes, no more, to prepare a ballot in the booth. A spoiled ballot must be returned to the ballot clerk, who will issue a new one. A voter is entitled to four trials, but the guard rail can be passed only once for voting purposes.

A POPULAR FALLACY.

THE IDEA THAT THE OLD SOUTH WAS NOT PROGRESSIVE.

Correspondent Parke Writes of the Prosperous Days Before the War—Random Observations at the Atlanta Exposition. Condition of the Colored Exponent.

At this stage of progress it seems to me best to merely name the most novel features in each department of the Atlanta exposition without attempting any detailed description. In the Agricultural building are represented every product of our soil south of Mason and Dixon's line and many from other sections. Here one may study the progress of sugar from the cane to the sugar bowl, of silk from the worm and leaf to the reel and loom, and of cotton from the boll to sheet and shirt. Of agricultural implements the display is rather of those which are to be used than of those which are. I see no specimens of the clumsy hoes hammered out of old mill saws, the rope lines and the collars made of hanks and old clothes which are still common in the south. Arkansas has the best state exhibit in this building. In the Machinery building Ohio appears to be a little ahead at present, though I have as yet found nothing entirely new.

Here, as at Chicago, Manufactures and Liberal Arts was meant to be the department of greatest popular interest, and Italy seems to have the greatest display of beautiful articles. From Milan are hundreds of kinds of ornaments and decorations. From Venice a complete exhibit of the Venetian glassware, and from elsewhere ceramics, Florentine mosaics, tortoise shell and ivory goods, embroideries and lace and a long array of statuettes of every size, design and material. In the educational section are many interesting specimens of school work from every part of the country.

In the Electricity building Indiana appears to lead. The Fort Wayne Electric company, the Junny Electric Motor company of Indianapolis and the American Electric Telephone company of Kokomo have taken up large spaces with fine exhibits. And next, so far as I can see, in display are Ohio, Massachusetts and Minnesota.

The Negro building was at first supposed to be too small for the many who wanted space, but exhibitors delayed so long that the design had far to degenerate into a burlesque, and even now the hall sometimes appears rather as a place of fashionable resort for the colored dandies and dandies of Atlanta than a place for scientific and industrial displays. Despite the rapid progress of 30 years there is still a good deal of what southerners call "the Jim Crow business" about the untaught negroes. They seem irresistibly prone to be the clowns and funmakers of humanity, and even the dandy quadrillionaire as he trips along the walk, the admiration of the black gamins, seems as if he had "made up" as a burlesque on the white exquisite rather than as a dandy in general. Perhaps, however, it only seems so to us by long association of ideas. The larger part of the space is taken by the educational institutions, and nearly all the rest is occupied by food preparations, artistic designs of various sorts and the colored people made no general industrial progress before the war. It is among the most easily proved facts that in 1860-66 the progress of the south, on the whole, was as rapid as it ever has been since and in some things much more rapid, and that the surplus labor and capital were turning away from agriculture. The south is to blame for the false impression created by the gush over the "new south," for, so far as human wisdom can see, the movement of 1860-66, maintained without the check of war, would have put this section far ahead of where it now is.

The increase of cotton production in that decade was 110 per cent, which simply couldn't have continued, as it would have brought a crop of 9,000,000 bales in 1870, and that would have crushed the market nine times as badly as it did last year. In "Uncle Tom's Cabin" St. Clair is made to propose this conundrum: Suppose something should happen to bring down the price of cotton at once and forever, to make it a drug in the market, what a flood of light we should get on slavery, etc. Well, that is precisely what would have happened had there been no war. The plant would have come as early as 1870-4, instead of 1890-4, cotton would have sold at 4 or 5 cents a pound at the gin, and slaves wouldn't have been worth 50 cents apiece for cotton raising.

In 1850 the south had 2,335 miles of railroad, and in 1860, 9,597 miles, an increase of 219 per cent. In 1860 the south produced nearly half the corn of the country, 40 per cent of the live stock, three-fourths of the tobacco and nearly half of several other staples, though it had little more than a third of the population. The gain in sawed and planed lumber was 95 per cent, in iron production 85 and in the manufacture of boilers and engines over 200 per cent. But it is needless to detail. To prove the case it is only necessary to consider this question: If the south had no great manufactures, how did she sustain herself in a four years' war and all outside shut off by a cast-iron blockade? These young southern writers are full of hope and energy and enthusiasm, but they must not forget that there are still a few of us old fellows who were alive before the war and saw what was going on. Horace Greeley, in the first chapter of his "American Conflict," showed that the United States in 1860 was the greatest and most prosperous nation on the globe, and James G. Blaine says the extraordinary prosperity of the south at that time created an excess of confidence which had much to do with bringing on the war.

But the young south is active and vigorous, with an eye for the main chance and a talent for advertising, and this exposition is a splendid monument to its fervent local pride.

A COLORED DUDE.

and needlework, the display of the last named being wonderfully varied and complete, a great credit to the colored women.

I have asked the colored leaders many questions about their progress in industrial organizations and find the whole matter in a singularly chaotic state, but all agree that in Pennsylvania their people have done rather the best in that line. In every part of the south soon after the war the freedmen joined in leagues and societies of every sort, and out of the many hundreds projected perhaps a dozen have proved permanent. From one standpoint it was laughable, from an other most encouraging, for it is the development of the organizing faculty which does most to make a people great. In addition to the many political leagues they had the Sons of Reuben, Wrestling Jacob, United Brotherhood of Friendship and Mutual Society, beyond counting. Almost every colored laborer is now a member of one of the latter, contributing a few cents each week as an insurance in his own case, for they have a beautiful habit of a pauper burial and a decent funeral.

In Pennsylvania, says the agent representing that place, they have a society for every important function of social life, a union for almost every kind of work, lodges and chapters for all the charities and many religious and educational clubs. At one time the colored constables there had the wharf and transshipment work entirely in their own hands and made their labor worth $3 or $4 per day to each during the busy season. The lowest unit of organization was the squad, the number of men who could conveniently work one vessel under one boss. The bosses were organized in divisions, and at the head of all was a committee to regulate hours and wages. Each laborer had his ticket to show his squad and division, and it was only as a substitute for a member that an outsider could get work at all. The strength of this organization was partially broken at one time, but I am told that colored laborers are everywhere struggling to combine.

At this point I digress long enough to give a whack to that erroneous idea so common in the north that the south

one day only. The sick and afflicted may consult them without charge during their stay.

If you are incurable they will tell you; therefore invalids must not take offense if they are rejected, as a case will be accepted unless there is a moral certainty of a cure being effected. These Doctors are graduates of the best universities of Europe and America; they are of the highest standing in the medical profession and have had unlimited experience in the treatment of all Chronic Diseases and Deformities. As the latest methods, instruments and appliances of the various schools of both the Old and the New World are familiar to and at the command of this staff of doctors, it is reasonable to believe that in ninety cases out of every hundred a cure can be effected, even when the patients have been given up as incurable by doctors who have had less experience. Do not be discouraged because your doctor cannot give you relief, or even if he tells you that you cannot get well, for it matters not what your doctor says, but, if you can consult the doctors free, and, if curable, they will treat you; if incurable, they will give you such advice as will tend to prolong life and afford you the greatest relief.

The doctor visits Middletown one day each month. Will be at 21 Freedom street, Port Jervis, Wednesday, Oct. 30th. Office hours from 10 30 a. m. to 5 p. m.

HYMNICAL.

Hardenburgh-Bull.
The wedding of Dr. Daniel Bailey
Hardenburgh and Annie May Bull, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bull, which took place at the Second Presbyterian Church, last evening, was one of the very finest events of its kind in the social history of Middletown.

The hour appointed for the ceremony was 6 o'clock, but long before that time the large church was crowded to its fullest capacity with a brilliant company, representative of the beauty, fashion and wealth of Middletown.

The church had been most beautifully and tastefully decorated for the occasion by Belding. The front of the choir gallery was covered with soft white drapery, and on the pulpit platform, from which the desk and chairs had been removed, were massed
in mound effect palms, ferns, au-reolaries and other tropical plants, interspersed with white chrysanthemums, the whole surmounted by a stately Phoenix palm. The effect was very fine, and added more than a little to the beauty of the brilliant scene.

Mr. W. J. Stevens presided at the organ and while the company was assembling filled the church with the melody of many popular airs. It was only a few minutes after 6 o'clock
when the strains of the wedding march announced the arrival of the bridal party.

The bridal procession entered the church by the west aisle. First came the ushers, Rev. Walter Laidlaw and Messrs. Louis Hasbrouck and Samuel
T. Conkling, of New York; Mr. E.
W. Harter, of Newburgh; and Messrs. John H. King and T. E.
Hayes, of this city. Then followed the bridesmaids, Misses Eleanor Bullins, Royce, Margaret Parish
Beattie, Mabel Lydia Hayes and Nellie Crawford Purdy, of this city;
Clara Phoenix Ray, of North Adams, Mass., and Minna Conkling, of Brooklyn.

The bridal procession passed down the aisle and in front of the altar and awaited the bride at the foot of the east aisle, down which she came leaning on her father's arm
and preceded by her maid of honor, Miss Esther Annie Kuhn, of Davenport, Ia., a schoolmate of the bride.
who came half-way across the continent in fulfillment of an agreement
made with Miss Bull at Abbott Academy that the one who was married first should be attended at the altar by the other.

The bride was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr.
Charles H. Hanford, of Newburgh, and the bridesmaids and ushers ranged themselves on either side of the couple about to take their marriage vows. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles Beattie, D.
D., the bride and groom kneeling on a white satin pillow during the prayer.

At the conclusion of the ceremony
the maid of honor removed that portion of the bridal veil that covered the fair face of the bride, the happy bridegroom kissed her, and Dr. and Mrs. Hardenburgh left the church by the west aisle, followed by the maid of honor on the arm of the best man, then by the bridesmaids, the ushers bringing up the rear.

Middletown has had many fair brides, but none of them fairer than Miss Bull in her rich bridal robe. It was of heavy ivory satin, with court train, with lace vest and pearl pen-dant and pearl griddle, and trimmed with point and Duchesse lace. She wore a long bridal veil and the orange blossoms worn by her mother
at her marriage twenty-eight years ago.

The maid of honor wore white satin, with long white fichu of mousseline de soie. The bridesmaids' dresses were of Dresden silk, three pink and three green, with long mousseline de soie fichus to match the dress. To carry out the Dresden effect they wore tiny rosebuds in their hair. It may be of interest to note that the bridesmaids' costumes were designed by the bride.

The bridal bouquet was composed of lilies of the valley, tied with broad ivory white satin ribbon, while the groom and his best man wore but-tonnieres of lilies of the valley. The maid of honor carried a garland of smilax and white carnations, while the six bridesmaids each carried a wreath of smilax and pink carnations. The ushers all wore boutonnieres of white carnations.

A reception followed the church service, at the home of the bride's parents, No. 46 South street, at which 220 guests were present. The defendants of Mrs. Belding and her assistants had made of the house a bower of beauty. A corner of the parlor was backed with palms, gratillias and ferns, and in front of this background the bride and groom stood while receiving congratulations.
The stairway was festooned with smilax, and the beautiful cabinet mantels throughout the house were tastefully trimmed with smilax, ferns, chrysanthemums and pink carnations.

Palms and bouquets arranged in every effective spot completed the decorations. So far as possible the wedding colors, pink and green, were used in the decorations.
The wedding supper, served by Mazetti, of New York, was a remarkably fine one, and the arrangement of the table was a masterpiece of taste and beauty.
Music was furnished by Roecher's orchestra, assisted by a harpist from New York city.

Dr. and Mrs. Hardenburgh left on the O. and W. night express, at 8:25, for New York. Their plans for their wedding journey have been kept secret, but they expect to be absent about ten days. As soon as possible after their return they will begin housekeeping in the fine residence,
No. 7 Orchard street, which Dr. Har-denburgh recently purchased, and which will be furnished throughout by the bride's father as one of his wedding gifts.

Dr. and Mrs. Hardenburgh will receive their friends in their new home, Thursday, Dec. 19th and 26th and
Jan. 21.

The bride and groom were given a noisy and brilliant send off. The carriage which conveyed them to the station was closely followed by another from which Roman candles were discharged. At the station the friends of the happy pair had more Roman candles to burn, and when Dr. and Mrs. Hardenburgh boarded the train, the brilliant blaze of Greek fire in pink and green, the wedding colors, lighted up the scene, and when the train pulled out the explosion of torpedoes, with which the track was lined, was almost a cannonade—a very noisy, but a very heartily farewell that meant all sorts of good wishes.

After the departure of the bride and groom, dancing was indulged in by the young people until a late hour.

The bride was the recipient of very many beautiful and costly gifts,
—jewelry, solid silver, cut glass,
etchings, etc., etc. Noteworthy among the gifts was a case of silver,
fifty-four pieces, from Dr. and Mrs.
Hardenburgh, of Port Jervis, the parents of the groom. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful brooch, a large diamond, surrounded by thirty-six pearls. The bride's gift to the groom was a solitaire diamond stud, and her gifts to the maid of honor and bridesmaids were wreath scarf pins set with pearls.
The groom's gifts to the best man and ushers were gold link cuff buttons.

Among the many beautiful toilets worn at the wedding, that of the bride's mother was noticeable. It was of rich satin brocade, trimmed with rich embroidery on lace and finished at the throat and wrists with point and Duchesse lace. She wore diamond jewelry.

Many telegrams of congratulations were received by the bride and groom from friends who were not able to be present.

Much amusement was created
when the bride cut the bridesmaids' cake. The ring, a plain gold one, signifying what plain gold rings usually signify, fell to the lot of Miss Margaret P. Beattie, and was wished on by the bride. Miss Purdy got the dime, Miss Royce the thimble, and the button must have disappeared in the baking, for it was not found.

The guests from out of town were:
Dr. and Mrs. Henry Hardenburgh,
father and mother of the groom;
Evd. Dr. and Mrs. S. W. Mills, Mr.
and Mrs. C. E. Cuddeback, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Van Inwagen, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Parrish, all of Port Jervis; Dr. and Mrs. O. E. Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Chambers, Addison Ormsbee, of Newburgh;
Mrs. H. E. Howe, Miss Harriet Howe,
of Warwick; Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Ormsbee, Miss Lucy Ormsbee, East
Goldenham; Mrs. Rogers, Miss Mary Rogers, Fishkill-on-Hudson; Mr. and Mrs. Theo. J. Danton, New Hampton;
Miss Grace Denton, Vassar College; F. M. Beakes, H. O. Horton,
New York city; Mr. and Mrs. C. E.
Sayer, Westtown; Mr. and Mrs. J.
Corey Johnson, Bloomfield, N. J.; Miss Alice Fleek, Newark, O.; Miss
Ida Culetter and Mr. and Mrs. Geo.
H. Conklin, Brooklyn; Miss Mary Slaughter, Crystal Run; Mr. and Mrs. Theron Crawford, Hopewell;
Mr. Robert Crawford, Burlington.

Clark-Medrick.
Mr. George Wesley Clark and Miss Grace Delilah, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dufrere Medrick, all of Port Jervis, were united in marriage at 8:30 o'clock, Wednesday evening,
Rev. Ame Venema officiating.

The groom is a son of ex-Supervisor Wm. L. Clark, of Greenville, and brother of School Commissioner
Willard M. Clark, of this city.

Thorpe-Rosenkrans.
Miss Nellie May, daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. H. O. Rosenkrans, of Port Jervis, and Mr. Russell Grant Thorpe, of the same place, were united in marriage at the home of the bride, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

The bride's dress was of white silk with court train and bridal veil, and was the identical gown worn by her mother on the occasion of her marriage many years ago.

EX-SENATOR VAN WYCK DEAD.

Represented Both New York and Nebraska
in the U. S. Congress.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. — Ex-Senator
Charles H. Van Wyck, of Nebraska, died at 1:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his apartment at the Portland flats. He was stricken with apoplexy Monday afternoon,
and his condition since has been very critical. He showed slight improvement on Wednesday morning, but at night grew steadily worse, and since then his death had been momentarily expected. At his bedside when the end came were Mrs. Van Wyck, a daughter, Miss Fannie, and his wife's brother, Mr. Mark Broadhead.

Charles Henry Van Wyck was born at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., May 10, 1824. He graduated at Rutgers in 1844, and soon afterward entered upon the profession of law. From 1850 to 1856 he was district attorney of Sullivan county, N. Y. He served in the lower house of congress two terms, from 1858 to 1864, as a Republican.
Before the close of his last term in the house he was chosen colonel of the Tenth Legion, or Fifty-sixth regiment of New York volunteers. He went to the front and served with General McClellan in the Peninsula campaign. In 1865 he was bravely wounded.

After the war Mr. Van Wyck returned to the practice of his profession, and was again elected to congress in 1867 and again served two terms. In 1874 he removed from New York to Nebraska and engaged in farming. But he soon drifted back into politics and in 1876 was a member of the constitutional convention. He was then elected to the state senate, where he served until 1884, when he was elected to the United States senate. He retired from the senate in 1887 and returned to Nebraska,
where he was subsequently twice an unsuccessful candidate for re-election. Mr.
Van Wyck, although a very rich man, was an uncomplicated devotee of corporations.
The family was accompanied by the members of the family were taken tonight by the Pennsylvania railroad to Milford, Pa., where they will be interred in the family burial ground tomorrow afternoon. Funeral services will be held in the Presbyterian church at Milford.
There will be no services here.

ing 30 rounds. These clips are carried in postcorder boxes from which they can be fed regularly through the guns, and when placed in position are moved forward automatically by mechanism connected with the piston. It is possible to fire as much slower than 600 times a minute, as may be desired, and is claimed by the Hotchkiss company that as accurate aim may be taken for single shots as with any ordinary gun.

This gun is not the invention of an American, Captain Adolphe Odkolek of an Austrian cavalry having produced it after long and careful experiments. It could be said, however, that in its present form it is the result of several improvements made by the Hotchkiss company after that corporation purchased it from Captain Odkolek. The new gun is said to be thoroughly tested by the United States authorities along with the machine guns at Indian Head.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Euterian's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Symparic and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

- Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?
- Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?
- Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?
- Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?
- Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher that it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?
- Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive rights to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?
- Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?
- Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?
- Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?
- Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

How?

can a lean man get fat? The answer is easy—“Eat H-O Oatmeal.” You buy beef. You pay 3 cents a pound for fat. Milk 3 cents. Potatoes 1 cent. Bread 1/2 a cent. There's no possibility of getting any cheaper fat-producing diet than H-O, without it may be corn which is a fifteenth part of a thousand more nutritive.
